The Laurels of Bon Air Achieves Deficiency-Free Infection Control Survey

Local skilled nursing facility receives top score from recent state-conducted review

RICHMOND, Va. – The Laurels of Bon Air, a skilled nursing and rehabilitation center operated by Laurel Health Care Company, received zero deficiencies in its most recent Infection Control Survey completed by the Virginia Department of Health on December 2.

“Achieving a deficiency-free survey is a tremendous accomplishment for our dedicated team at The Laurels of Bon Air,” Scott Williamson, regional director of operations, said. “This is an impressive bar for any nursing home to meet and clear, so we are incredibly proud to have received this outstanding result.”

What Does Receiving a Deficiency-Free Survey Mean?

A deficiency-free rating as a result of a state inspection is the best result a skilled nursing or assisted living facility can achieve. It is an excellent indicator of quality service and superior resident care.

How Are Infection Control Inspections Conducted?

Inspections are conducted by surveyors from a state’s health department, who follow stringent directives and guidelines outlined by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS). Surveyors complete a multi-day evaluation that includes a review of, among other things: overall resident care, quality of resident life, facility policies and procedures, staff proficiencies, equipment and safety. The survey process begins unannounced and includes conversations with facility employees, facility residents and select resident family members.
